The Mikado,

The Opera House was well filled Wednesday night to witness the performance of the Mikado by the Clarksville amateurs. The large audience was made up mostly of Clarksvillians but there was in attendance a consider-ble sprinkling of people from abroad. There is always an interest in amateur performances that gives them a peculiar zest in the community where the amateurs are known. Professionals, of course, are much more artistic, but their superior excellence does not compensate for that relish which an acquaintance and friendship with the performers inspiras. We think it extremly doubtful if Emma Abbott could have 10x16 12 " drawn so large an audience as that which assembled at the Opera House 12x18 8 Wednesday night, or have given so 12x20 8 much pleasure as did the Clarksville 14x32 4 ' amateurs.

The rendition of the opera was such | 8x10 12 light Blinds, per pair. as to afford very fine amusement. The 10x12 12 spectacular effect was splendid and both the singing and acting, as a whole, were good. There were special performances that could hardly have been excelled Poplar Flooring........... 1 75 " 1 25 " and deserve the highest commendation. Ist Class The principal characters were well be- Ceiling. stowed, each performer being suited to his or her especial caste.

The "three little maids from school" come in for first notice and Yum Yum is deserving of special mention. Miss Addie Beaumont acted the part exceedingly well. She is sprightly and versatile, has a good voice and understood the requirements of the character.

Her costume in the first act was blue -Esq. G. H. Slaughter and wife, of St. Beth- | Satin with hand painted front and pink in white brocaded satin, faced with ing the fire in my store Friday morn-Mikado yellow and embroidered with ing. Kismet floss,

The first entrance of "the three little maids from school" could not have been excelled by professionals. Miss Lieber accomplished her part finely and deserves high compliment for her distinct articulation, and Miss Jennie Bailey's fine voice added greatly to the pleasure of the performance through-

Yum Yum was equal to every scene in which she appeared. In the solo: "We are very wide awake, The moon and I"

she evinced a good talent for singing as well as acting. Mr. Sam Hyman as KoKo covered himself all over with glory; he is a first class commedian and ought to be on the professional stage. He was splendid throughout, sung the "Tit-willow" song ing and $13,000 on stock in the agencies in fine style, eclipsed everything in "The flowers that bloom in the spring,tra la." and brought down the house when the Mikado began to prescribe the punishment for killing the heir apparent. Mr. Charlie Beaumont had the requisite sentimental melancholy for Nankipooh. Mr. Ed. Munford personated Poo-Bah, and Mr. George Hendricks made a splendid Mikado. Mrs. Sam Stacker assu ned the character of Katisha on short notice and got through very well for the time she had to prepare it.

Mr. Palmer created much amusement by his pantomine performance of the Mikado's train bearer.

The Fire.

E. GLICK.

A fire occurred in the storehouse of E. Glick at 2 o'clock Friday morning. The flames originated in the basement in the back portion of the house, it is impossible to say from what cause. The fire was discovered by a colored man whose house stands in the rear of the store. The Fire Company turned out promptly and did excellent work. It is indeed a miracle how they managed to get through the dense fogs of smoke and steam and extinguish the flames. The damage is about $750 on the building and several thousand on the stock. The damage to the stock came principally from smoke and water. Mr. Glick is owner of both building and stock. He was insured $4,000 on buildof G. N. Byers, Kennedy & Munford and Jas. T. Wood. John W. Faxon & Co. had $1,000 on fixtures.

The Academy Closing. The patrons of Mrs. Buford's school at the Academy assembled in the build well the pompous, aristocratic but venal | ing last Friday to witness the closing exercises which consisted of essays, recitations, musical performances and a calesthenic drill. Mabel Wood, Mary Lurton and Myrtle Drane were given prizes for punctual attendance, Susie Daniel, Maggie Lincbaugh and Katie Howell received each a prize for proficiency in their studies. Janie Glenn received Miss Mooring's prize for proficiency in music.
